QUARTERLY REVIEW

Same Song, Different Verse: U.S. equity markets ended 2025 by notching three straight years of double-digit gains, a feat last seen in the late 1990s. On trend with recent history, strong corporate profits and artificial intelligence (AI) momentum powered through a softening labor market and noisy inflation signals. Positive benchmark performance returns were again attributable to a relatively few number of companies, concentrated in mega-cap platforms and AI infrastructure beneficiaries. The quarter's strategy performance underscored this theme, with modest index gains masking sharp reversals in momentum factors and retail-favorite baskets. Across this backdrop, the Zevenbergen Genea Fund trailed its Russell 3000® Growth benchmark in 4Q25 (see performance highlights on page 3) on unfavorable positioning in industrials (public safety) and consumer discretionary (e-commerce, entertainment), offset slightly by positive contributions in industrials (space technology), technology (e-commerce) and consumer discretionary (automobiles).

PERSPECTIVE

Vision Before Precision: From the DeepSeek launch to "Liberation Day," 2025 was marked by economic twists and turns few could have predicted; yet, encouragingly, equity markets never fully lost their tether to underlying earnings. Many of the major U.S. market debates of 2025 - consumer health, AI adoption, and monetary policy- remain unresolved, and we believe investors could experience a sense of déjà vu in 2026. Corporate profits look poised to grow at a healthy pace, providing a continued constructive backdrop for equity returns. However, the extreme concentration within market-capitalization-weighted indexes, where returns have been increasingly driven by a small group of the largest stocks, is unlikely to continue. A dynamic like this underscores our conviction in a flexible, forward-looking, and all-capitalization investment approach that seeks to navigate the risks of passive market complacency. ZCI's edge continues to be our temperament and time horizon, thanks in large part to our clients who share our conviction that success in growth investing follows rigorous fundamental analysis and is not measured in months or quarters, but in years.

Mutual fund investing involves risk, including the loss of principal. The Fund invests in securities of foreign companies which involve greater volatility and political, economic and currency risks and differences in accounting methods. Non-diversified funds may hold a significant percentage of their assets in the securities of fewer companies and therefore events affecting those companies have a greater impact on the Fund than on a diversified fund. If the Fund invests in a few sectors they may have increased exposure to price movements of those sectors. Small and medium capitalization companies tend to have limited liquidity and greater price volatility than large capitalization companies.
